SECOND SESSION MARION SINGERS

The Marion County Singing Convention held its second session of song for season of 1916 at Cedar Spring Sunday, the exercises being held in the neat little Cumberland Presbyterian Church just completed there. The actual song program was not commenced until 2 p. m., the morning hours being devoted to preaching by Rev. S. F. Sands, of Whitwell, the pastor, who filled his regular appointment, together with Sunday school. At 12:30 under shade of the beautiful walnuts where the ground was covered with pennyroyal, which, crushed under the feet of the old and the young, exuded a fragrance that filled the gently sweeping breezes, dinner was spread, and in generous plenty. There was everything imaginable for the satisfaction of the inner individual, and if anyone didn't get filled to the Adam's apple, it was their own fault. Dinner tasted mighty good out there in the open, and the enjoyment was enhanced by the nice, hospitable people present, and splendid behavior, just like the ladies and gentlemen you read about.

At 2 p. m., as afore mentioned, the singers got busy, tuned up their harps, flutes or whatever species of voice they had and went at it, and some nice singing was done under charge of Chas. Rigby, the president of the organization, Byron Graham, the secretary, and others. Probably the excellent dinner added steam, for the singing was spirited and accurate, and some mighty pretty selections given.

The Cedar Spring people have always been rated as mighty clever people. They have a pretty locality, and the only thing lacking is proper roads to it. However, they are getting the good roads fever, and are going to get nerve enough to pitch into road making on their own hook, aided by whatever the county will give them of the bond issue, $5,000. This sum is not much for building six or seven miles of road, which at present resembles anything but a road, and they should cooperate for a good road. Every man who owns land in the section, should make it his personal duty to see that a good road is built this summer, after crops are laid by, where it will benefit him and assist him the most. That is, if you own a farm and the road passes it, consider that road your property and fix it up, and if you don't own the farm, but use the road for travel, help the owner of the farm in fixing it up. If we owned a farm we would have a good road passing it, or quit owning the farm, one or "other."

Cedar Spring people are intelligent, hard working, and enterprising, and when they get the good roads fever right will have an ideal community, a regular summer villa town, if many of them were to put up residences as handsome as that recently erected by Ed Condra, which is one of the prettiest country residences we have seen in a long time.

REMARKABLE REMARKS.

Mary Pickford—I cry real tears.
Lillian Russell—Use your mirror.

Gen. Petain—We will get them.
William Barnes, Jr.—Stop hero worship.

W. H. Taft—I claim to be a progressive.

"Bugs" Baer—Very few piano drummers carry samples.

Emperor William—The present war must end at Verdun.

Irvin S. Cobb—I just naturally hate to say "no" to anybody.

Gen. Emilio Zapata—Mexico can produce everything she needs.

Rev. J. H. Jowett—Everything is being read today but the Bible.

Republican Leader Mann—The President never has been neutral.

Former National Chairman McCoombs—Wilson is invincible.

"Nick" Longworth—When the call for volunteers comes I will be there.

George Bernard Shaw—It was perfectly correct to shoot Miss Cavell.

Billy Sunday—Come on, you ball players; try stealing home to God.

David Lloyd George—We have means. The central powers have methods.

Woodrow Wilson—There are some humbugs that have been at large a long time.

Luke McLuke—Save your old champagne corks; they are worth $3.00 a thousand.

Rev. F. N. McMullan—I want to see more church people going to the baseball games.

John B. Walker—Of all words of human invention the most frightful is "conscription."

Norman Hapgood—It is not the wicked who are most cruel. It is the good who "crucify."

Senator Harding—If I were in authority I would tell Carranza to go jump off the mountain top.

Gov. Ferguson of Texas—It is now the solemn duty of the U. S. to enter Mexico and assume control of that unfortunate country.

Evangelist Hall—I had rather believe in God than go into a dark room and get a message from my grandmother thru some Indian squaw.

Prof. Thomas J. McCormack—The public school should be primarily the temple of Minerva, and not of Vulcan, or of his wife, Venus.

Prof. Albert Brushnell Hart—Within five years the so-called republic of Mexico will be under the benevolent superintendence of the United States.

Joseph Pennell—If Broadway were a street in a European city, centuries old, Americans would flock there by hundreds of thousands to visit it.

Dr. Salmon—At Ellis Island, where I spent three years as a physician, doctors spent as much time in examining the mental condition of an immigrant as is spent by the gateman at a railroad station in examining your ticket.—The Independent.

GARDEN IS A BIG ASSET TO FARMER

Many Have Found It Profitable To Utilize Space for Producing Vegetables

YARDS USED BY TOWN FOLKS

People of the City Derive Much Pleasure From Backyard Gardening—Soil, if Well Fertilized and Worked, Will Produce Good Results.

(By Chas. A. Keffer, Division of Extension, University of Tennessee.)

The United States Department of Agriculture is making a vigorous campaign for diversified farming in the South. The Southern farmer is told to grow his own meat, and the grain and hay to feed it, to make his own butter, and plant a garden. The wonder is that this advice should be necessary.

To buy meat and butter and vegetables while operating a farm would seem a contradiction; but the fact remains that even in Tennessee many farmers buy meat and eggs, dairy supplies, vegetables and fruit, or their families go without these necessities.

The garden should be a big asset on every farm and in every town lot; not big in size, but in profit. The successful garden is a striking example of intensive effort. It should be small, heavily fertilized, constantly worked. In every small town in Tennessee there are excellent gardens, whose owners are as jealous of their reputations as gardeners as if they were so many grand opera singers. It is an achievement to produce the first peas, or the earliest potatoes or the largest tomato.

Here in Tennessee the garden is a place for work during at least nine months in the year. It should be plowed or spaded in the fall, and a heavy coat of manure should be turned deep into the soil. Manure is plant food, and a great regulator of soil moisture. It is almost impossible to give a plant indigestion by an oversupply of food, where the moisture condition is right. Manure heavily. Plow or spade deeply. Make the soil fine all the way down before planting. And keep the garden well cultivated after it is planted.

Plant little of any one vegetable at a time, and plant often. What is the sense of growing a whole row of radish or lettuce or cabbage, when only a tenth of a row can be used while in fit condition for use? It would be better to plant a tenth of a row, and in a week or ten days plant again; two or three plantings of radish in March or April, and two plantings in late August or September gives radishes enough; one tires of radish, and the row that knew radishes in April should be growing beans or okra or tomatoes or melons in May. Snap beans should be planted at least nine times, at intervals of two weeks, if beans that really snap are wanted throughout the season. Tomato plants should be set in April, and again in June. Everybody should plant beets for winter use in early August. Salsify and parsnips are best sown in early June in Tennessee gardens. Cucumbers and cantaloupes will afford a continuous supply if two or three plantings are made. Plant white potatoes in January or February, and in early July. Sow onion seed in January, and put in the culls from the crop in September. Make the garden rich enough, and hoe without ceasing, and one may plant something with profit in every month from January to October.

The garden that is continuously planted is continuously productive. It is a big asset in town lot and farm. But the unweeded garden! "Things rank and gross in nature possess it merely."

COUNTY DEMONSTRATION AGENTS
(By C. A. Keffer, Division of Extension, University of Tennessee.)

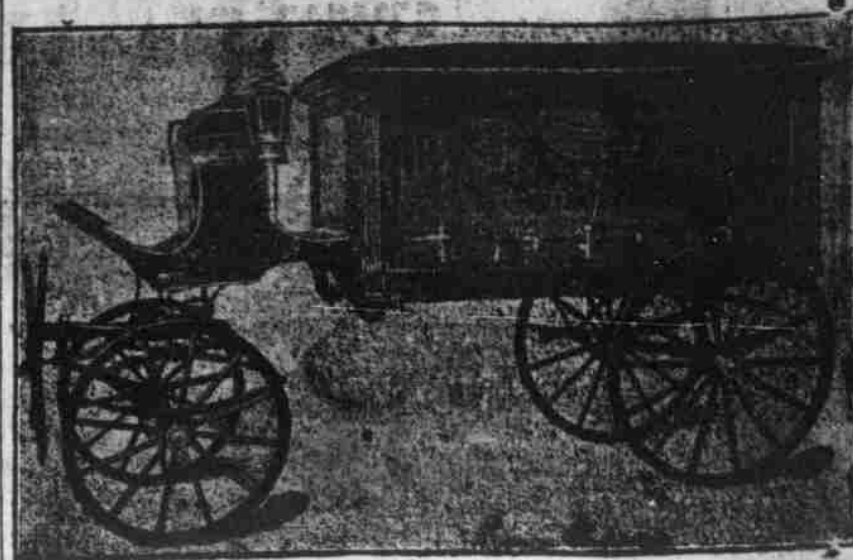

Forty-four counties in Tennessee have co-operated with the Division of Extension of the College of Agriculture in employing farm demonstration agents. No state in the union has better natural advantages for farming than Tennessee. In almost every county in the state two crops a year can be grown; throughout the winter the fields should be covered with winter grains and legumes, affording the best of pasturage for live stock, and green manure for increasing the fertility of the land for summer crops. Wherever a county demonstration agent has been employed he has more than earned his salary in the increased profitable production on farms where his methods and advice have been followed. The Division of Extension will pay five hundred dollars per year toward the salary of a county agent, provided the balance of the salary is raised within the county by appropriation of the county court, or from other sources. A good man can be had for twelve hundred dollars per year. This opportunity should be seized by every county in the state that has not yet secured a demonstration agent. For full particulars address Director, Division of Extension, University of Tennessee, Knoxville.

$100 REWARD $100.
The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature to do its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address, P. J. ### RESOLUTIONS.

Resolutions of sympathy for Brother N. B. Turner, aged 68, who departed this life June 18, 1916.

Whereas, God in his infinite love and wisdom has seen fit to remove from our midst our brother, N. B. Turner, who was a faithful and loyal member of Knox Local No. 1732 of the of the Tennessee Division of the National Farmers Union; was a kind and devoted father; a quiet law-abiding citizen and neighbor; and, whereas, in the death of Brother Turner, Knox Local and Marion County Union have lost a member who never shirked in his duty and the community a quiet and upright citizen, therefore be it

Resolved, that we, Knox Local, tender our expressions of deepest sympathy and condol
